		1 With each overcoming, greater are the peace and the blessings that are reached.	2 Mysterious are the pathways of the Infinite; we must be humble and meek so as to traverse them.	3 A great heritage of disharmony and mistreatment must be removed in order to arrive at the nucleus of light of the material substance.	4 To witness situations of need awakens the spirit of donation in the beings who are available to serve.	5 All, each one to the degree that is possible for them, are being prepared to enter another stage of existence.
6 The genetic pattern of humanity represents the level of the relationship of the inner being with matter.	7 Countless are the pathways to the dawn of the new humanity. So many indeed that each and every one of us must find their own.	8 If humanity could recognize the damage resulting from vanity it would take care to keep it far away from itself.	9 When the consciousness turns to the inner nuclei it is welcomed by the soul which in its turn is already contemplating the spirit.	10 Unthinkable and unimaginable is that which arrives in the concrete life in the moments in which the consciousness contacts incorporeal spheres.	11 A basic principle of the mystic life is to know that profound reality is immaterial and thus intangible to the external senses.	12 The mind is a screen in which energies of superior spheres may be projected and in this way get to know the physical world.
13 The inner contacts, by their transcendent nature, bring a state of bliss and of peace.	14 It is the expression by means of the body of light that makes humans capable of transcending the illusion of time and space.	15 The consciousness must integrate the inner light of each cell with a greater light.	16 In order to be of service to the development of all, it is necessary to have compassion for all, but to be vigilant and stern with oneself.	17 The birth of life goes back to the Origin of the origins, and about it the silence of eternity is all that it is possible to know.	18 Those who have accepted to serve evolution must cultivate in themselves a state that stimulates others to seek serenity.	19 The supra-human life crosses the limits of this galaxy and connects this small Earth to other points of the cosmos.
20 Even though the future solar cycle is inconceivable to the human terrestrial mind, one may catch a glimpse of its existence.	21 The true wealth is that which in any circumstance accompanies the being; it is not measured in coins or virtues.	22 What we call the Evolutionary Plan is the expression of the cosmic purpose in time and space.	23 Each being and each group has a specific goal to achieve.	24 The human mind can capture projections of realities that transcend the formal life.	25 The Earth as a whole will start to actually walk the infinite pathway of light.	26 With the closure of the current evolutionary stage humanity will enter into the initiatory path.
27 To seek the origin of the universe means, in a certain sense, to move toward the origin of humanity itself.	28 The humanity that inhabits the Earth comes from different regions of the cosmos.	29 The ability of inner perception may be developed in those individuals who open up to the contact with supra-physical realities.	30 When we contact an individual we transmit to them the energetic state in which we find ourselves at that moment.	31 To contemplate the cosmos, humanity must turn to the higher and remove its eyes from the terrestrial life.
